Yesterday after the tx I wanted to show some of the guys how AC live works..
Imo there is no chart outthere as good as the 1 you make...
If anyone is in the market to upgrade there units,I cant say enough how humminbird has change my fishing..
Now I understand WHY a fish was where it was..

Im not sure where u saw me,I do that alot when looking on my side scan for fish. I have alot of mahopac mapped..
Alot of the Rock piles were empty,so if I dont see any life,I move on.when using side image it is best to look @ it from all different angles..I have found going past it 1 time I miss alot..

We gotta get you using it..its easy...

Your unit has 8hrs of recordable space in the unit right from the factory,no card is needed..once you fill the space,you will then need a zero line card.all that you recorded will automatically be transfered to card once you get 1..

.I recomened buying the auto chart pro pc software,& it comes with a card..

Hit menu twice,scroll over to the humminbird icon..select auto chart n turn on...its that simple..

Do zig zags as you are recording..4-5mph is a good speed...make sure you turn off recording every time you want to move..

I can explain the software when you get to that point..

Yes they updated the base map...

Make sure you Restore to default sttings before doing any updates..& make sure sd is blank..

Go to your account @ humminbirds website(im assuming you registeted your unit)..

It will tell you what version the newest update is.

Then you can see what update your unit has in it now through system settings in your unit..

Yes sir...start mapping & enjoy.

Remember to stop recording every time you get up & move... your maps will be all fucked up if you dont..but you have the ability to erase on the pc..

Im asduming you have not done any recording since april when you got the unit???..if you have, put the zero line card into the unit & it will transfer over..

If not Im glad I was able to help someone out..it truly is another world..you will start putting together patterns..in return catch more fish..

It takes alot of time & alit less fishing to get a grio on things..just in 1 season I have learned so much..
