For some reason I was not able to get onto the forums for about 4 days. If anyone is interested in Woo Tungsten just go to the website you could order whatever you want individually doesn't have to be in kits. Those were just special offers and knowing that we could only use tungsten at Congamond figured I'd let you all in on it. If you want something individually I could use my code for the discount. And Big D you have sponsors so you know once you sign with a company you can only use the products that you agree to use. I can only use Venom Plastics and other items I signed up for however I am contracted to use only woo tungsten to get my discount. I chose companies and products that I believe in and that have worked for me. You are all individuals and can use what you want. Just trying to save you some money.

That was a sale promotion code from over a month ago. I'll see if there is a new one. Go to the website they always are having sales but I personally send you a text message some other codes.
