

---

Is Mahopac in trouble?

Posted by Joe - 2010/10/30 17:57

---

Just a sampling from NY Bass.com. I know a lot of guys have been griping about Mayo the last two seasons, but this one takes the cake.

How was the fishing? Well I believe our impressive bags will tell that story . Me and my partner Billy were able to pull out our second win on Mayo of the season. Strangely enough this was my best year ever there as far as wins, not weights or numbers. The two combined tournament wins didnt even push past 15lbs .

Techinques, maybe this will help some of you doners to this weekends Halloween tournament. We caught our fish in two ways, one was a hole we found surround by fairly shallow water and the hole was 15-25ft deep. Caught two fish pretty quick there on DS with Jackall Cross tail shads. Our biggest fish and shy of lunger by 2oz, a LMB none the less, was caught in shallow water off a rock flippin soft plastics. 2nd place team Rodgers said they caught there 3 fish and lunger smallie 2.7lbs on DS in deep water. I tried all day to get a fish on a Keitech spider grub because I knew our two other teams were using them to catch fish but I couldnt buy a bite with them.

I have no idea what has been going on with Mayo this year. I think everyone that has fished there this year will say the same. I saw alot of guys pre fishing out there too and heard they did squat as well. I hope it turns around next year. Until next year, thanks for looking

Here are the offical standings:

1st- Kohlor/Trimboli 3 fish (2SM, 1LM) 5.05lbs
2nd- Team Rodgers 3 fish (3SM) 4.10lbs
3rd- Mollergren/Cuttone 2 fish (1LM, 1SM) 2.11lbs
4th- Begina/Dave 1 fish (1SM) 1.4lbs

Lunker: Team Rodgers- 2.7lb Smallie

As you can see some typical big bags from Mahopac 2010

Can't wait to see the Halloween Tourney results.

=====

Re:Is Mahopac in trouble?

Posted by Kenny - 2010/10/30 21:34

---

I sent our dates and a check for $200.00 yesterday by express mail overnight delivery so hopefully we get what we want before anyone else.

:) :) :) :huh: :dry:

=====

Re:Is Mahopac in trouble?

Posted by BOOZE - 2010/11/01 10:33

---

I love how people say the lakes in trouble when they cant catch fish. EVERY body of water has "off" days.

=====

Re:Is Mahopac in trouble?

Posted by Kenny - 2010/11/01 12:50

---

Hey Joe, maybe those guys just can't catch bass! And if reports like that keep clubs and pressure off the lake then it's great! :laugh: :huh:

=====

Re:Is Mahopac in trouble?

---

Posted by Mike K - 2010/11/01 15:52

---

I was there for the holloween classic as you can see from my results I stunk up the place . I have not done well on that lake for a long time . That being said I think that the lake is fine , The fish that were taken were very fat and healthy .It will return to its normal self soon enough. We will see if I can get something going for the turkey trot and do the club proud.
Mike

=====

Re:Is Mahopac in trouble?

Posted by BOOZE - 2010/11/02 07:18

---

I hate that lake.....tee hee

=====