
Mercury mechanic

Posted by JP Bass - 2016/05/08 11:52

I'm not having much luck finding a mechanic to fix my boat
Can anyone recommend someone within reasonable distance..or even a mobile guy..
Thanks in advance

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by Big D - 2016/05/08 12:00

I think the place where i keep my boat fixes boats..

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by Kenny - 2016/05/08 18:12

I used Precision Marine in Seaford for a small job, but Dennis says they turn little jobs into big jobs so I am guessing they stink and will rob you, please read below.

:huh: huh :huh: what :huh: Uh Oh :dry:

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by Big D - 2016/05/08 19:54

As far as precision marine goes imho they are the worst marina ive ever used as well as the biggest crooks...heres my story...a few years back i changes the plugs on my boat, went to fish a tourny and my boat would not get on plane...precision was recomended to me so i used them...i told the mechanic i was sure it was a plug but he did not listen..after 2 weeks and 1000 bucks he said it was fixed...nope..i towed it up to fish a tourny and the same $h!t..this happened like 3 times...after changing multiple things...holding my boat for months and charging me thousands..about 4 grand to be exact the problem was a bad plug...now after basicly robbing me without a gun this guy had the balls to try and charge me anothe 1100 for dropping my boat in the water multiple times to test the engine for a problem they couldnt find...f--k precision...before i was sponsered by barrys i used a marina in howard beach...not bad good work ok pricing but longggggg waits....gl..btw 6316120122 leave a message because i never pick up

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by JP Bass - 2016/05/09 04:22

Thanks guys..I definitely dont need another parts changing mechanic...:)

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by Frank - 2016/06/27 13:42

Hey JP,

I have a very good Mechanic that both my daughter and I have used for years.

He is fair and honest

Not cheap but also not expensive. Let me know if you hook up with him. I think he will come to you and if he can't fix it their he will tow it to his shop which is behind his home. He is in the "Nice" section of Greenlawn. LI

You can mention my name if you use him

Small boat services
Pete
631-757-5537

Frank Kavanagh

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by Billy Dust - 2016/06/28 07:10

What's wrong with it

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by JP Bass - 2016/07/03 07:01

Frank wrote:
Hey JP,

I have a very good Mechanic that both my daughter and I have used for years.

He is fair and honest

Not cheap but also not expensive. Let me know if you hook up with him. I think he will come to you and if he can't fix it their he will tow it to his shop which is behind his home. He is in the "Nice" section of Greenlawn. LI

You can mention my name if you use him

Small boat services
Pete
631-757-5537

Frank Kavanagh
Thank u Frank.I will definitely keep him in mind

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by JP Bass - 2016/07/03 07:05

Billy Dust wrote:
What's wrong with it

Im beginning to think my motor does not like 89octane & fuel additives..last 3 trips out I put 87 & no additives, & she has been running ALOT better.
Keeping Fingers crossed
Thanks everyone

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by Joe - 2016/07/03 23:09

What year is your engine?

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by JP Bass - 2016/07/04 05:54

Joe wrote:

What year is your engine?

It is a 1996

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by Kenny - 2016/07/04 14:51

JP, use ONLY 87 Octane gasoline!

Higher Octane than that is not good for an outboard.

You should use fuel treatment to help with the effects of Ethanol. Also Carbon Guard every other fill up.

=====

Re:Mercury mechanic

Posted by Joe - 2016/07/06 00:05

The ethanol beaters make a big difference. I also use Mercury Quick Silver engine fuel system cleaner

=====