
New Guy Tx ?\'s

Posted by Hooked Solid - 2010/01/24 12:42

Was reading thru the Tx rules and I wanted to ask a few questions.....

- Although we know it is much safer to ride with a life jacket, There is no penalties or points deducted for not wearing one while the big motor is running? Do you at least need one on board for each member?
- 100 yds from the launch is acceptable distance to be counted as "back at the ramp" a slong as you are not fishing?
- No penalties for receiving any kind of ticket while on the water/DEP, speeding, etc....

Not trying to be a Bitch, just wanted some clarificashe.....

That's right Paulie. Not only is there no points penalty for not wearing a life vest while the big engine is running, we encourage our members to stand on their seats and drive once the boat is up on plane. You get a better view of the lake that way. :woohoo: :woohoo:

In all seriousness...wearing the life vest is highly recommended but. no you are not forced to wear it.

Be careful. Depending on time of year the state laws have changed.

The NEW New York State Law requires all persons aboard boats 23' and smaller to be wearing a life preserver at all times between November 1st through May 1st.

Life vest not required to wear if you don't carry then you like to pay fines that is up to you!
100 yards and in sight not fishing and coming in is fine.
Tickets are personal issue and does not affect competition so they mean nothing to the club.

Thanks for clearing that up Kenny.

I do think it is wise to wear a life vest when running the big motor or even in rough water up at the front and I always do.Just wanted to know if it was mandatory.

Thanks for clarifying gentlemen...
It seems every question I have sparks some type of clever dig towards another member.
I'll see if I can keep it goingB)

If there is a 4 oz penalty for a dead fish,and there is a 4 point penalty for weighing in a short.Is there a stiffer penalty for weighing in a dead/short?:huh: :blink:
Hopefully it's not somekind of T-bag thing again,once was enough at the first meeting.....

Good point Paulie. Why don't you bring in 5 dead shorts and we'll figure it out.

That would be some accomplishment Nicky,to bring in 5 shorts! The dead part would be no problem,but I'll try to make it happen for you:P

Maybe at the tx before the Classic qualifier.....

The latter would be "fishing" in that statement! Perhaps you meant the witness could verify the "former"!
